

IMPLEMENT MEN FORM ORGANIZATION

Tribute to McCormick, of Virginia, the Inventor of the Reaper and Binder.

VIRGINIAN AMONG VIRGINIANS

Inventor of Machinery That Revolutionized World's Farming Was Born in Rockingham County.

Richmond has become the convention city of the whole country. This fact is due to a certain extent to the late lamented Jamestown Exposition, as it is called. It was during that exposition many conventions that wanted to rendezvous at Norfolk, or on the Exposition grounds, found that Richmond, with its superb hotel accommodations, offered a better place, and here they came. This town obtained a reputation as a good town to which to hold conventions.

General Manager Dabney, of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, was not slow to catch on to this advantage, and he has been pushing it ever since. From the days of the exposition until now Richmond has had conventions galore, and scarcely a week passes in which there are not one or more conventions of one kind and another in session here.

These big meetings are made up of various organizations, national, State, district and county—that is to say, from the greatest to the smallest—and all find in Richmond ample facilities for their business and a hospitality that cannot be beaten on the earth.

The Implement Men's convention was held here last week. It was a kind of tri-State convention, composed of hardware and farm implement dealers from the States of Virginia, Maryland and North Carolina. It was an interstate gathering of dealers in farm implements, harvesting machines, reapers, binders, planters, sowers, fertilizers, distributors, corn and wheat seeders and all that kind of modern farm machinery.

There were in the city during two days something more than a hundred delegates from various points in Virginia, North Carolina and Maryland, and they held their meetings at Murphy's Hotel. While their doors were kept "kindly closed," it is learned that the object of the convention has been to organize an interstate association of implement dealers composed of sellers of these goods in Virginia, Maryland and North Carolina.

The officers of the newly organized association emphatically deny the statement that in some way gained currency that the organization was formed to fight the International Harvester Company, sometimes called the trust. Indeed, one of the officers has said to a newspaper man that the dealers have no fight with the trust. They are getting many advantages from the same, and so are the farmers and the grain-makers who buy farm machinery.

Organization Necessary. In this day of modern farm machinery and of modern methods in farming, in new methods of sowing and reaping, and especially in the matter of cutting in the use of labor-saving machinery, there cannot be too much organization, especially if that organization tends to the education of the young farmers of the present generation, and brings them up to the idea of twentieth century farming and the proper use of machinery. The young farmers of Virginia, it must be admitted, need to be instructed somewhat along these lines, and hence the organization of this implement dealers' society, or whatever it may be, is a happy one.

McCormick, the Inventor. In this connection it may be worthy of mention that the originator and the inventor of the reaper and the binder, a machine that has revolutionized the grain-producing industry of the nation and of the whole world, was a Virginian. Cyrus H. McCormick, the inventor of the reaper which yet bears his name, was born and reared in the wheat-growing county of Rockingham in this State. He was born just a hundred years ago. He was a Virginian of Virginians, and his name stands as a landmark in the history of his native State. His son, Cyrus H. McCormick, Jr., succeeded to the management of the great enterprise built up by the father, and as such he is now the president and general manager of the great International Harvester Company. The company has branched out in later years, and now makes and sells all over the world labor-saving machinery for the farmer other than the famous McCormick reaper and binder.

It is fitting that the first annual convention of the farm implement dealers of that section of the South embraced in the great grain-growing States of Maryland, North Carolina and Virginia should be held in the capital city of Old Virginia, the native State of the man who made the reaper and put in operation the machinery that has made the farmer his own master, and not the serf of the land-owner.

A Tribute to McCormick. In a recent issue of a trade journal the following tribute to McCormick was paid:

"While all of the people are commemorating the one hundredth birthday of Abraham Lincoln, the implement trade and the millions of farmers all over the world should hold in grateful remembrance that on February 15, 1803, Cyrus H. McCormick, the inventor of the first reaping machine, was born."

"He induced a public benefactor of the race, and while Lincoln struck the shackles from millions of men who of a necessity made labor from reaping the crop, McCormick, by giving more intelligent men a machine that gave them greater productive power, and not only enabled them to increase the yield of their fields but lightened their labor."

"All honor to the name of the man who has done so much for the advancement of agriculture in the whole world."

and a rarely handsome vase, with trumpet neck, at $4.00, the highest of the peachbloom prices (catalogue number 570).

Miss Dorothy Whitney was another who was after this particular vase, and she captured the exquisite amphora for $3,000. Besides this she bought a rouge box and a water dish for $450 and $460, respectively, and another water dish, a shade larger for $450. The superb amphora, which had been badly broken and restored, went to a collector for $1,050, and the gorgeously mottled writer's dish fell to Duvene at $630.

When the auctioneer came to the Sang-de-Bœuf pieces "everybody" was ready for him at the moment the great vase called "The Flame" was put up. It is of K'ang-Hest manufacture of great beauty, and stands 17 1/4 inches high. Somebody had the temerity to offer as a starter $2,000, which at once was jumped to $3,000, and then to $3,500. After $4,000 had been called the first really picked up. The vase fell to a New York dealer, whose name was not made known, for $3,550.

J. W. Ellsworth took the graceful, oval vase in Sang-de-Bœuf at $3,000. The next piece of the Lang-Yao on the catalogue, a bottle, went to Mrs. Taylor for $2,025. R. H. Haslet paid $1,000 for the morris-black club shaped. A chair-de-luxe vase went to a collector for $1,625.

PROGRAM PREPARED

Descendants of the Signers Will Meet in Washington.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] WASHINGTON, D. C., February 27.—An interesting series of events has been arranged for the next quarterly meeting of the board of governors of the Descendants of the Signers, which is to be held in Washington and the city of the Potomac.

After a preliminary meeting of the board of governors it is proposed to visit the Department of State to view the original Declaration of Independence, then call at the White House to meet President and Mrs. Taft.

In the evening an illustrated lecture will be given under the auspices of the society by Mrs. Mary W. Worrell, of New York, entitled "The Signers of the Declaration of Independence," in which President and Mrs. Taft, members of the President's Cabinet, United States judges, Senators and Congressmen, members of the diplomatic corps and other distinguished people will be introduced.

On Tuesday, April 13, the birthday anniversary of Thomas Jefferson, a pilgrimage will be made from Washington by special train to Monticello, the home and the tomb of Jefferson.

WILL EXTEND TERM

Case of "Wets" and "Drys" Still Taking Time of Court. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] ROANOKE, VA., February 27.—In the local opinion contest to-day the "wets" closed their case by having Judge Staples state that he would extend the term into March, and direct the clerk to render his decision until the Supreme Court was heard from on the Ward law.

Real Estate Active

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] LEBURG, VA., February 27.—The real estate market has been very active for the last week. Loudoun county is attracting many buyers, and an influx of prospective purchasers is expected. The reason for this is the inauguration of President Taft, this section being situated very near Washington. Among the principal sales are the following: Major B. W. Lynn has purchased from the heirs of the late George Simpson, near Leesburg, 255 acres, located near North Fork, for $6,000. He will convert it into a stock and grazing farm.

W. H. Gale of Washington, D. C., the United States consul at Malta, has sold to F. D. Paul of Washington, his real estate near Leesburg, for $20,000. The Martin A. Leslie farm of 235 acres, located near Purcellville, Loudoun county, has been sold to T. C. Baker for $10,000.

The B. L. Fox land, near Waterford, in two tracts, has been purchased, respectively, by Pickles and the Misses Donaldson, of Waterford. The total consideration was $5,000.

Speculative and business real estate recently purchased from J. W. Bauckman, a farm of 193 acres near Harrison. The consideration was $2,700.

Rapid Progress Made

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] VICTORIA, VA., February 27.—The completion of the 412 miles of the Virginia Railroad, from Norfolk to Deepwater, W. Va., seems to have been the awakening of the undeveloped country. Ninety-nine new towns have been established, and the spread of this new commercial spirit has created new business and opportunities for enlarged enterprise already established. This growth has increased the demand for capital. Victoria, Va., in two years has developed from a hamlet into a town of a thousand inhabitants, has urgent demand now for fifty new houses to be occupied immediately. Proceeding to the battle of the sea, several profitable industries found their equipment and their capital too limited to meet the demand of their growing business. The town of ten, poorly depressed trade. The business revival now in sight will again compel expansion of manufacturing plants.

Road Is Assured

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] WASHINGTON, VA., February 27.—The new road across the Blue Ridge Mountain is now almost assured. Augusta county has contributed $450,000, Nelson county $250,000 and the road will be one of the most remarkable in the State, running from Basic City across the mountain by Abingdon, and on to Brooksville, in Albemarle county, a distance of about eight or nine miles. It will be built according to specifications of the Highway Commission. This is the only thoroughfare between Staunton and Richmond and it will be of immense interest to automobilists, as well as the local traveling public.

Engagement Announced

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] BURKEVILLE, VA., February 27.—Mrs. Margaret McLean Leath has announced the engagement of her daughter, Mary Wilson, to William Bernard Farrar. The marriage will take place Wednesday, March 17th, at 6 in the evening, at the Presbyterian Church.

Chatham Market

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] CHATHAM, VA., February 27.—Sales of tobacco Friday were the largest for several weeks, and prices ruled well. Very small part of the crop is now in the farmers' hands, and, if good, reasonable weather continues for several days, it will be very material to the farmers. The market was very well satisfied with prices received.

OLD PILOT GOES ON LAST VOYAGE

Veteran Seafarer, Ninety-Eight Years of Age, Dies at Buckroe Beach.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] HAMPTON, VA., February 27.—Captain Charles W. Topping, aged ninety-eight years, the oldest member of the Virginia Pilot's Association, as well as the oldest man in Tidewater Virginia, died in the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. M. T. Webber, at Buckroe Beach, this afternoon. He was also the oldest member of the Odd-Fellows in Virginia, and held membership in the United States Lodge, No. 1, of that order. Captain Topping, three years ago, piloted a big steamer from Hampton Roads to West Point, although he retired from active duties as a pilot when he celebrated his ninetieth anniversary. He was hale and hearty until two weeks ago, when he contracted a cold which caused pneumonia and terminated in his death. Captain George W. Topping, of Old Point, is the only surviving child. There are many grandchildren and great-grandchildren, also several great-great-grandchildren. Captain Topping was born in Elizabeth City, New Hampshire, Dec. 12, 1811. He was probably the oldest Odd-Fellow in America.

Senators Tillman, Hemenway, Overman, Carter, Smith of Michigan, Clay, Flint and Clark spoke on the life of Senator Latimer. Senators McEnery, Dixon, Smith of Michigan and Hale on Mr. Powers. Senators Bankhead, Wiley, Senators McEnery, Clapp, Perkins, Gallinger and Foster on Representative Meyer; Senators Bradley and Senators Aldrich and Wetmore on Representative Granger.

News of the Southside

Manchester Bureau, Times-Dispatch, No. 1102 Hull Street.

The Rev. B. D. Thames will be installed as pastor of the Weatherford Memorial Baptist Church at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Thames is by no means a stranger to the church-going people of this community, as he has frequently been heard in the various pulpits. He was formerly pastor of a church in Fairfax county, and is a member of the Virginia Synod.

The program will be as follows: Voluntary, "Gloria Patri"; Invocation, Rev. R. H. Pitt, D. D.; hymn, "Come, Thou Fount"; Scripture reading, Rev. J. C. Miles; prayer, Rev. J. W. Durham; hymn, "The Morning Light"; welcome on behalf of the church, Dr. J. G. Loving; welcome on behalf of Richmond and Manchester Baptists, Rev. W. C. James, D. D.; quietest, "Come, Holy Spirit"; welcome on behalf of other denominations, Rev. W. M. Roland; Declaration of Church and Parish, Rev. W. E. Robertson; response by pastor, Rev. B. D. Thames; hymn, "Awake, My Soul"; benediction, Rev. B. D. Thames.

Full Time for Workmen. An order was posted in the Southern Railway shops yesterday notifying employees that beginning to-morrow full time will be allowed in all departments of the road except in the foundry. As far as can be learned, the force will not be increased at present, but the full-time order is considered a good omen, and better things are hoped for. There are at present more than 500 men at work in the local shops, whereas a year ago the number was probably over 1,000.

Committee to Meet

The committee on annex of the Bainbridge Street Baptist Church will meet to-morrow night in conference with W. C. West, the architect, for the purpose of further considering the plan for the new addition to the present building. The annex will be added to the rear of the present structure, and will cost $5,000.

The church is in a very prosperous condition, and the congregation is impatient for the completion of the work, which will afford greater opportunities for the increase of the congregation. Rev. J. S. Peters, the pastor, is leader in the movement for the enlargement.

Will Renew Revivals

Laymen from all the Protestant churches in Manchester have been called to meet to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock in Bainbridge Street Church, when the question of renewing the Sunday afternoon revival services in Leader Hall will be discussed. There is no doubt that the sentiment will be unanimously in favor of renewing the revival, and the discussion will then be as to the choice of those who will address the services.

Vaden Is Disbursing Agent. Clarence Vaden, cashier of the Bank of Manchester, was yesterday officially notified by Postmaster T. H. Smith that he has been appointed disbursing agent for the funds to be used in the construction of the new post-office building. The amount will be about $50,000, and will probably be held in trust for which he will go, and he feels very much gratified at being called the secretary of the Treasury in Washington.

To Open Night School

Many pupils have already enrolled for the public night school, which will open to-morrow night at 7:30 o'clock. A free night school is something that has never hitherto been attempted in this city, but it seems from the number who have signified their intention of taking advantage of the classes that the move will be generally popular. Funds for the conduct of the new school are provided for in the budget.
